Alltrak Quadsport

Alltrak Quadsport is a low speed skills event ideal for the 'first time' and experienced quad bike rider. Following basic instruction, competitors must memorise the route or 'test' then ride the machines through a specially prepared course, which is fully portable and consists of bollards and cones, a limbo bar and a series 'stop boxes' and turns, all of which must be negotiated against the clock of course! Penalty points are issued for 'mistakes'. The object of the course is to combine a precise and accurate approach as fast as possible.

Blind Quadsport is another competition unique at Alltrak which is negotiating a similar course while totally blindfolded! Yes - the person driving the quad cannot see! This is a very good team activity as the rider gives their eyes to someone else. The team of two are connected by two way radio and together they negotiate a course - naturally against the clock! This is a 'great fun' group activity with plenty of laughs as the riders really have no idea what they are doing which is great craic for everyone watching.

This is a totally transportable package and can be operated on tarmac, gravel and grass ANYWHERE in Ireland.
